Today's Project Directors and Practitioners are ideally positioned to enable change and agility through innovation. By challenging the traditional project belief systems which limits our focus to certain aspects of projects, we can aspire to new levels of success. And, by adopting new ideas, methods and technologies we can evolve our industry.

Over the next two days, we encourage fellow Project Practitioners, Directors, Industry Leaders, Government and Educators to challenge the norms and inspire each other to progress beyond traditional principles and modify our thinking.
